Course Description

Loma Linda University Medical Center 2018 Stroke Symposium will present Stroke: Treatment, Prevention and Rehabilitation, geared towards specialists that treat patients with stroke.

Today's stroke care provider is faced with rapidly evolving technological advances. The specialist must be well informed on the latest scientific developments in the area of stroke.

The purpose of our lecture series is to update providers with current technologies, techniques and evidence-based practice patterns for treating patients with all forms of cerebrovascular disease.

Objectives

Upon completion of this course, participants will be able to:

1. Integrate current concepts of comprehensive stroke care
2. Recognize the impact of health living on stroke prevention
3. Formulate a multidisciplinary team approach for stroke patients
4. Define the brain-heart connection in stroke prevention
5. Discuss the updates on the cutting-edge stroke therapy
